The International Psychogeriatric Association wishes to acknowledge Gardiner Caldwell Communications who produced the first edition of the IPA BPSD Educational Pack.

About IPA

The International Psychogeriatric Association (IPA) provides physicians, healthcare professionals, and scientists with information about behavioral and biological aspects of mental health in the elderly, through publications, meetings, and special educational projects. IPA keeps professionals in close touch with current news and international perspectives on research, clinical practice, innovative developments, and significant literature in the field. In addition, IPA works actively to promote a broad spectrum of research and to increase worldwide understanding of psychogeriatric issues.
